

• Innovations in Theory of Mind Assessment and Intervention for Children with ASD •

Presenter: Patricia Prelock, Ph.D., CCC-SLP, BCS-CL

This workshop is appropriate for parents and any professional working with children with ASD.

The goal of this workshop is to increase the audience's understanding of the nature and treatment of theory of mind deficits in children with Autism Spectrum Disorders, as part of a larger effort to facilitate social cognition. The audience will be fully engaged in the material through analysis of videotaped examples of children with a range of Theory of Mind challenges as well as through review of the available assessment tools. Participants will be asked to determine intervention goals based on assessment results. They will also be provided with relevant examples of social stories and comic strip conversations that facilitate perspective taking and will be asked to create the context for developing their own.
