

•What's New with Special Education Assessment Tools? •

Presenter: Jen Patenaude

Multiple revised editions of popular norm referenced assessments for both academic and cognitive testing have recently been released. Lack of familiarity with what and how these new tests measure key aspects of learning and how they interface with the use of older tools may create some uncertainty for teams during the comprehensive evaluation process. This assessment workshop is designed to introduce special education teachers, administrators, and evaluators to these new measures, their relationship with older measures and their intended purpose within a balanced educational evaluation. This workshop will further offer explanation and practice regarding how to best identify a learning profile using a diagnostic cross battery assessment model which is key for informed, targeted student programming.
