

• Special Education: Suggested Approaches to Case Management With An Eye to Recent Cases and Legal Requirements •

Presenter: Heather T. Lynn, Esq.

Audience: Special Educators, Case Managers, Directors of Special Education, and any other educators who may be assigned to work with Vermont students with disabilities

This workshop will provide updates on recent case law, nationally and locally, with an eye to understanding how these decisions may be used to inform future approaches to the regulatory process of developing and implementing IEPs and working through team disagreements. IEP Team meetings, communication, documentation and planning are all discussed with an eye to maintaining procedural integrity and fact-based decision making. Additionally, some “red zones” of common disagreement will be discussed.

Ms. Lynn is the managing partner of Lynn, Lynn, Blackman & Manitsky, located in Burlington, Vermont with a state-wide practice in education law. Ms. Lynn consults with both public and private Vermont schools on a wide range of issues including students with disabilities and general discipline matters, hazing, harassment and bullying. Ms. Lynn also provides annual, state-wide trainings for Vermont schools on the Agency’s procedural requirements with respect to hazing, harassment and bullying responses and investigations.
