

• Developing Evaluation Reports and IEPs that Reflect the Needs of Students •

Specific Learning Disability - Jen Patenaude
Emotional Disturbance - Sarah Schoolcraft & Mandy Couturier

This workshop will focus on the development of evaluation reports and IEPs that reflect the unique profiles of students with emotional disabilities and learning disabilities while still meeting necessary legal requirements. Disability specific assessments, adverse effect evidence, and recommendations for programming will be discussed related to the development of quality written evaluation reports. The IEP portion of the day will address the development of disability specific present levels of performance, service delivery models, standards based goals and objectives and data collection tools that reflect the unique needs of a range of learners. If you have been feeling concerned about whether your special education paperwork meets necessary procedural requirements or whether this documentation adequately addresses student need from referral to recommendations, then this is the workshop for you.
