

• Interrupting the Worry Cycle: Advanced Strategies for Managing Anxious Students (& Parents!) •

Presenter: Lynn Lyons, LICSW

Who Should Attend: Educators, Administrators, Special Educators, Mental Health Professionals, Nurses, School Counselors, Psychologists, Pediatricians, Interested Parents

Anxiety is a persistent master. When it moves in, it takes over daily routines, learning, recreation, and social connection. To make matters worse, the things adults (including many therapists and school systems) do to help anxious children can actually make the anxiety stronger. All these children put a palpable strain on frustrated, helpless parents and teachers. And there is no escaping the problem: anxiety is the top reason that parents seek help from a mental health provider, a top predictor of developing depression in adolescence or early adulthood and is perceived as “epidemic” by educators and parents across the country.

What we teach children about risk, danger, uncertainty, and problem-solving makes a huge difference in whether they go on to become anxious or depressed teens and adults. In this workshop, we will explore concrete and often counter-intuitive strategies that educate children and adults about anxiety and provide an “umbrella approach” that is applicable to all the anxiety disorders and OCD. This workshop will demonstrate HOW to interrupt anxiety’s cognitive patterns with simple, process-based strategies that offer an alternative to techniques that inadvertently support avoidance of anxious symptoms. Lynn will offer proven strategies that help children manage anxiety, change their relationship to worry, and prevent lifelong patterns that lead to depression, avoidance and other physical and emotional challenges.

• Follow-up Webinar Opportunity •

Workshop participants may also sign up for these two, follow-up webinars - a great opportunity to apply learning, practice strategies, and get feedback from Lynn.

Webinar #1: Creating Effective Support Plans for Anxious Students

When it comes to helping anxious students succeed in (and sometimes even attend) school, accommodation plans can be tricky. Often, plans inadvertently support the avoidance of anxiety and thus strengthen the disorder, with too little attention to how schools and parents can work together to build skills and increase active engagement. Building on October's extensive discussion about a skill-based approach, this webinar will offer more specifics and answer questions that arise on HOW to create effective 504 and other support plans that integrate active skill-building and include school staff, parents, and treating clinicians. Participants will leave with examples of effective goals and language to include in plans, as well as a template to guide the process and ask the most useful questions.

Date: December 11, 2018 3:30 - 5:30

Webinar #2: Case Consultation: Putting It All Together

Participants will submit cases and specific questions in advance of the webinar to be used for case consultation and an extended Q&A.

Date: January 8, 2019 3:30 - 5:30

Cost: $120 for both webinars Registration details can be found at: Lynn Lyons
